Jeff Segler

"The Boys of Pajarito Plateau"

30"x 24" oil painting; cost not to exceed $70,000

Proposed location: over the secondary fireplace in Fuller Lodge.

The painting is a historically accurate representation of Boy Scouts from the era of the Ranch School.

Jeff Segler is a Santa Fe-based artist who has close ties to Los Alamos. He is the official painter for the Boy Scouts of America.

"The Boys of Pajarito Plateau"

Public comment was mixed (including both strong support and strong opposition) for the artist's proposed 72"x48" painting to go over the main fireplace in the Pajarito Room at Fuller Lodge.

Common concerns included the location, size, and subject matter of the large painting over the main fireplace.

APPB pursued a version up to 36" tall to be located over the secondary fireplace. The artist created the 30" x 24" painting under consideration tonight.
