A temperature of 40F needed for installation.

I move that the Art in Public Places Board select Design #2: "Birds and Big Skies of Los Alamos" by artist J Muzacz, and recommend that County Council approve the purchase of this glass tile mosaic for installation on the south-facing wall of the Justice Center, for a not-to-exceed amount of $70,000. A target date of January is wanted for the submissions. A process for submissions is being planned. The general plan is to choose a winner from the submissions, then have the winning art on display for a while, then an offer to procure the chosen piece would be made by APP. Discussion on the process was had. Questions from the Board were answered.

- Mainly 2-D art because of limited space
- Ribbon cutting ceremony and opening of art show costs. Proposed amounts would need to be taken to Council.
- Chelsea Ashcraft explained requirements for the pieces if the County would be purchasing and displaying the art.

Justice Center Wall Art Project

Analysis of Survey Comments by ChatGPT:

- Design 2 is the clear favorite, despite its perceived busyness.
 - People value: Accuracy to Los Alamos’ ecosystem; Visual vibrancy; A stronger emotional and geographic connection
 - A few respondents dislike both designs, preferring simplicity; more modern/minimal art; sculptural or non-mural alternatives

Design 2 - Key Themes

 Positive Themes (dominant):	 Negative Themes:
• Better Local Representation: ◦ Multiple mentions of deer, bear, mesas, tanager, and cliffs from Anderson Overlook ◦ Viewers recognize real local wildlife and landmarks	• Too Busy / Cluttered: ◦ Described as a “visual cacophony” or “aquarium scape” ◦ Suggestion to reduce number/size of elements (esp. blossoms and birds)
• Color Use: ◦ Described as vibrant, colorful, appealing, and more engaging	• Disproportionate or Confusing Imagery: ◦ Large butterfly and flowers, white bird outlines seen as odd ◦ Bear may look like a grizzly (not common here)
• Greater Depth and Interest: ◦ Design seen as layered and dynamic, “something new to explore in each glance”	• Artistic Style Concerns: ◦ Some felt it looked like “clipart” or “primary color hell” ◦ Others questioned artist selection (not local)
• Emotionally Resonant: ◦ “Now that’s Los Alamos”; strong feelings of place-based identity

Based on strong language, emotional intensity, and clarity of opinion:

● Top 3 Most Negative Comments	● Top 3 Most Positive Comments
There are still saguaro cactus featured in the center and far right in light beige. PLEASE, the state of New Mexico does NOT have saguaro cacti! PLEASE do not embarrass Los Alamos County with such an inaccurate, unscientific depiction. We obviously hold science to a high standard here. Just look at the nature center. We'll be the laughingstock of well-educated people, residents and other. PLEASE don't give us another reason to be disappointed in our art in public places.	Love, love, love this one!
I have somehow missed the earlier public comment phase. I am horrified that it has progressed along this stylistic path. It is bad art. But I also understand that I missed the boat and will have to accept this techno-vivid nightmare.	Now that's Los Alamos! Love the deer, the mesa, the bear, etc. To me, this is Los Alamos.
Comment from above stands. The Justice Center is one of our few classy buildings that gets modern NM style right. And then we want to go and do this? Stay in a SW color palette. This looks like primary color clipart hell. Or get the middle school art students to come and do it. That would be the only excuse for something like this.	Design 2 evokes local vibes and seems to be a better composition of elements. It seems more vibrant with the depths of the background... The whole range of colors gives much more depth and gives the eye something new to explore in each glimpse. Well done!

Comments that explicitly mention "Los Alamos" from the survey responses, excluding comments about Design 1.

◆ Q2 - Comments about Design 2

1	Butterfly and roadrunner are disproportionally large.	7/20/2025 8:20 AM
2	The roadrunner is strangely out of scale and too dominant. The apricot blossoms also look out of scale. The background is too abstract and more suggestive of low altitude scrub lands rather than the high mesa pinon/ponderosa that can be found in the heart of Los Alamos.	7/19/2025 12:24 PM
3	Too plain and dont feel road runner is that common in Los Alamos, have seen them in Barranca but lots more in Las Cruces and even ABQ.	7/18/2025 8:40 PM
4	Looks like there is a saguaro cactus in the background? Which does not grow here	7/18/2025 11:13 AM
5	It is tacky. The colors are too bright, Gaudy Garish.	7/15/2025 9:00 AM
6	Unprofessional and not a representation of NM	7/13/2025 10:40 PM
7	I like design #2 much better.	7/13/2025 5:58 PM
8	Not really what I'd call "cultural" references -	7/13/2025 8:54 AM
9	Roadrunners are not common in Los Alamos, and it is brown and dusty in background. Better reflects the valley and great NM, not Los Alamos.	7/13/2025 8:11 AM

Art in Public Places: Follow-Up Community Input Survey for the Justice Center Wall

10	Looks to be generic southwest and Sonora desert.	7/12/2025 6:13 PM
11	Colors not vivid enough.	7/12/2025 1:03 PM
12	I like that it's more understated, not too chaotic. Design elements aren't competing with each other. Change the roadrunner to something from our local fauna, and this will be a winner.	7/12/2025 10:22 AM
13	Weird clouds and weird white outlines around some of the birds. Do we have roadrunners in this area? I have seen them around Albuquerque but not here.	7/12/2025 10:04 AM
14	There are road-runners in WR but not in LA	7/12/2025 8:35 AM
15	Doesn't reflect Los Alamos	7/12/2025 6:36 AM
16	don't like the abstract background. roadrunner too large.`	7/12/2025 6:04 AM
17	A bit too reflective of the desert landscape rather than the high desert mountains of LA. Not too many roadrunners in Los Alamos. It seems more reflective of Santa Fe or Albuquerque	7/12/2025 4:55 AM

19	I like it, but it's kind of a cliché.	7/11/2025 8:35 PM
20	I wouldn't hate it if it was chosen. I love the roadrunner. I don't like all the cacti. To me Los Alamos is more ponderosa pines than cacti	7/11/2025 7:39 PM
21	Roadrunner seems very fitting.	7/11/2025 6:36 PM
22	I don't see it as reflective of Los Alamos. We rarely see a roadrunner and it dominates the scene.	7/11/2025 6:30 PM
23	not very vibrant	7/11/2025 4:54 PM
24	We do not have saguaro cactus in Los Alamos as in the background of this sample!!!	7/11/2025 4:35 PM
25	Presents a clear message	7/11/2025 4:22 PM
26	Roadrunner is not a common bird on this plateau, seen 2 in 30 years. I prefer a little less brown.	7/11/2025 3:35 PM

1	Butterfly is disproportionally large.	7/20/2025 8:20 AM
2	The cliff faces (as one sees at Anderson Overlook) aren't as deep red as portrayed, but otherwise this design captures their appearance. The tanager, towhee, raven and mammals can be found here and well-rendered. The general background is much more suggestive of our environment than that shown in design 1, but I'd prefer smaller and fewer apricot blossoms.	7/19/2025 12:24 PM
3	Lots of nature, but wonder if too many items so may be too distracting for drivers going 30-35 mph on Trinity (best for viewing for pedestrians. Walking by or in and out of building.	7/18/2025 8:40 PM
4	Love the picture of the canyon being included and love the antelopehorn milkweed	7/18/2025 11:13 AM

9	Love, love, love this one!	7/13/2025 5:58 PM
10	I wish more of the valley view was showing but I like that this one is more colorful and contains at least some representation of our amazing view across the Rio Grande valley.	7/13/2025 8:54 AM
11	Pretty colors and love the emphasis on birds, flowers, deer and one of our beautiful cliffs in the background.	7/13/2025 8:11 AM
12	Design 2 evokes local vibes and seems to be a better composition of elements. It seems more vibrant with the depths of the background which I hope is not just a variation in sky colors but is the view of the plateaus seen looking west on NM 502 on the hills around El Rancho in the late afternoon or early evening. The whole range of colors gives much more depth and gives the eye something new to explore in each glimpse. Well done!	7/12/2025 10:09 PM
13	Better representation of northern New Mexico and Los Alamos.	7/12/2025 6:13 PM
14	What happened to the road runner?	7/12/2025 6:02 PM
15	Love the variety of plants and animals. Much more vivid and interesting than 1. The western tanager is awesome. Yes please!!!!	7/12/2025 1:03 PM
16	Too much going on, and the scales and colors of the different elements seem to clash. There's nowhere for my eyes to rest. The elements are individually cool (tanager, pinon, mesas, raven, bear...), but the combination is visual cacaphony.	7/12/2025 10:22 AM
17	Why are there white outlines around the flying birds. That looks weird and distracts from the rest of the artwork.	7/12/2025 10:04 AM
18	Love the wildlife represented in this version.	7/12/2025 9:19 AM
19	Perhaps a different artist	7/12/2025 8:51 AM
20	This is a better reflection of Los Alamos County wildlife.	7/12/2025 8:35 AM
21	Shows wildlife that represents what you see in Los Alamos	7/12/2025 6:36 AM
22	I feel like the second design better represents Los Alamos.	7/12/2025 6:11 AM
23	more colorful, balanced. love realistic background.	7/12/2025 6:04 AM
24	Now that's Los Alamos! Love the deer, the mesa, the bear, etc. To me, this is Los Alamos.	7/12/2025 4:55 AM
25	This is a much better design than before. At least its components are more relevant to Los Alamos County than #1. -- I still don't understand why an Austin, TX artist was selected, who is neither local nor regional, as put forth in the APP mission statement. There are local artists who could do something similar in mosaic tile, if not in Los Alamos, in Santa Fe or Albuquerque. This makes the public think this is a sweetheart deal of some sort. I'd suggest that APP be more attentive to its mission statement. Mid-to-high five-figure expenses of public money require accountability to taxpayers.	7/11/2025 9:13 PM
26	Too busy	7/11/2025 9:08 PM
27	I like this one best, but I can't see the bear. It sort of looks like a grizzly, not the black bears marauding our trash. Can she fix the bear to ensure it doesn't look like a grizzly? Of course the iconic view of our canyon is what I especially like about this one.	7/11/2025 8:35 PM
28	I like the bear and deer and all the bird species. The background is more representative of Los Alamos.	7/11/2025 7:39 PM
29	Deer are everywhere in Los Alamos.	7/11/2025 6:36 PM
30	This is Los Alamos. Mesa, deer high ground, woodpeckers. Represents what we see every day. Thanks for the survey.	7/11/2025 6:30 PM
31	Looks like an aquarium scape	7/11/2025 6:28 PM
32	This one feels too busy. A collage of the animals sounds great in theory but this representation comes across very cluttered.	7/11/2025 5:51 PM
33	much more colorful	7/11/2025 4:54 PM

Art in Public Places: Follow-Up Community Input Survey for the Justice Center Wall

34	Would be better if the middle birds and flowers were downsized a little. They are good and shouldn't be downplayed because they are disproportionate and distracting to the overall feeling.	7/11/2025 4:22 PM
35	Represents Los Alamos better in choice of critters and pine bough.	7/11/2025 3:35 PM

1	Not a fan of either, but Design #2 is preferable.	7/20/2025 8:20 AM
2	I would eliminate a few of the apricot blossoms from design 2 and fill in the space with more mountain and sky views as seen to the left above the cliff faces. The blossoms almost look like plumeria blossoms found in Hawaii and other tropical places. Try to scale them back perhaps.	7/19/2025 12:24 PM
3	Need something more modern on that building. And non distractive to traffic. Something calming.	7/18/2025 8:40 PM
4	More of the wildlife and mesas that are here.	7/17/2025 9:24 PM
5	It has a more pleasing color palette to look at	7/15/2025 6:39 PM
6	I like them both equally	7/15/2025 3:48 PM

11	I'd think design number two would be perfect if you took out the deer and added in the roadrunner head from design one.	7/12/2025 12:57 PM
12	Despite my reservations about the busyness of #2, the roadrunner rubs me the wrong way.	7/12/2025 10:22 AM
13	Depicts more of wildlife and scenery from area.	7/12/2025 9:19 AM
14	The relative size of all the images make for an ugly jumble of subjects. The artist obviously has not studied the vegetation here. I suggest less cactus, more Piñon and Ponderosa, more wild flowers, more canyon and mountain, smaller birds, etc, i	7/12/2025 8:51 AM
15	This is a better reflection of Los Alamos County wildlife.	7/12/2025 8:35 AM
16	This design is beautiful and shows a lot of what is in and around Los Alamos.	7/12/2025 4:55 AM
17	They both are great expressions of our local wildlife!	7/11/2025 10:33 PM
18	Too bright mixed colors	7/11/2025 9:29 PM
19	Better representation of Los Alamos County than #1, but not perfect.	7/11/2025 9:13 PM
20	Design #2 is too busy	7/11/2025 6:35 PM
21	I'd love to see murals all over town	7/11/2025 6:30 PM
22	Leave the ugly injustice center alone. You screwed it up enough already.	7/11/2025 6:28 PM
23	If no changes to either one were done	7/11/2025 4:22 PM
24	I like the mural, I don't like the price.	7/11/2025 2:12 PM

#	RESPONSES	DATE
1	Not a fan of ANY artwork at this location. Like the plain stucco wall. Prefer sculptures at Ashley Pond and other locations.	7/20/2025 8:20 AM
2	Reflects local ecology. Like the background which includes mesas & mountains viewed from Anderson Overlook.	7/19/2025 12:28 PM
3	Design 1 is much less appealing and seems to be suggestive of lower altitude flora, fauna and general environment. The roadrunner is almost menacing in its out sized dominance.	7/19/2025 12:24 PM
4	There is too much going on in Design 2. The three bird species next to each other are too much, and their size in relation to the bear makes the bear seem like an afterthought.	7/19/2025 6:23 AM
5	Don't want an accident due to distraction to drivers or bicyclists due to a busy colorful piece public art. I really like the very earlier triptych the sturdy iron structure moved to WR. It symbolized strength and power of the Judicial building. I served 8 years on the Art in Public Place in 1980's before the Judicial building built.	7/18/2025 8:40 PM
6	It represents New Mexico Better	7/18/2025 7:36 PM
7	Design 2 is much more true to Los Alamos! Please pick it	7/18/2025 11:13 AM
8	both designs represent new mexico but 2 is specifically the los alamos aesthetic and wildlife that we see everyday	7/17/2025 1:31 PM
9	None	7/17/2025 1:28 PM
10	I think the second design looks better	7/17/2025 1:27 PM
11	This is an awesome idea. It would be cool if we could incorporate teens into either its creation or other pieces of public art around town.	7/16/2025 6:54 PM
12	More mellow choice of colors	7/15/2025 6:39 PM
13	They're both pretty but I like the simplicity and colors of the first design compared to the second which feels a bit overwhelming.	7/15/2025 5:55 PM
14	Better mural. Better animals and design	7/15/2025 3:40 PM
15	Not doing this option	7/15/2025 3:33 PM
16	I have somehow missed the earlier public comment phase. I am horrified that it has progressed along this stylistic path. It is bad art. But I also understand that I missed the boat and will have to accept this techno-vivid nightmare.	7/15/2025 9:00 AM
17	I think the animals in Design 2 better represent what we see in Los Alamos.	7/14/2025 10:00 PM
18	Already made comments. I really dislike both of these	7/13/2025 10:40 PM
19	No one wants to see a peeling or washed out mural.	7/13/2025 5:58 PM
20	Design 2 is more vibrant in color and features the mountains in the background. Design 1 has no mountains and too much brown grass and empty space. Design 2 is much more appealing and features more animals.	7/13/2025 7:57 AM
21	I love the colors especially the bright blue and true flora and fauna of Los Alamos!	7/13/2025 6:12 AM
22	It's not too busy, not too bold, it's just right.	7/12/2025 9:42 PM
23	I don't particularly love any of the designs that have been presented.	7/12/2025 8:38 PM
24	Design 2 feels more like Los Alamos while Design 1 feels more like NM in general.	7/12/2025 7:52 PM

Art in Public Places: Follow-Up Community Input Survey for the Justice Center Wall

25	design 2 includes animals, birds, insects and the local landscapes. The flowers seem too large and too important.	7/12/2025 6:02 PM
26	The 2nd one shows the cliffs and sky and brings out the colors of our community. The first one is has a background that is too brown.	7/12/2025 4:29 PM
27	Highlights more of animals actually seen in LAC	7/12/2025 2:35 PM
28	See above	7/12/2025 1:03 PM
29	Not a necessary expenditure.	7/12/2025 10:04 AM
30	The images are more interesting.	7/12/2025 9:44 AM
31	Whatever is painted there, please remember it is going to get a ton of sun exposure. Many will be disappointed if it becomes a faded, peeling disaster. Also, make plans/preparations for dealing with graffiti, this town ain't what it use to be.	7/12/2025 9:04 AM
32	#2 is a better reflection of Los Alamos County wildlife.	7/12/2025 8:35 AM
33	Add the road runner anywhere into design two, and it's perfect!	7/12/2025 8:27 AM
34	Design #2 feels more local/regional to Los Alamos and it has a western tanager in it.	7/12/2025 8:13 AM
35		7/12/2025 7:43 AM
36	vibrant and many points of interest	7/12/2025 7:29 AM
37	Represents more of what can be seen around Los Alamos County	7/12/2025 6:36 AM
38	I love the idea of a tile mural. The second design is, by far, a better representation of our life here in Los Alamos.	7/12/2025 6:11 AM
39	At this point, the brown vs blue background. The images on both are stunning!	7/11/2025 10:33 PM
40	Comments in Question #2.	7/11/2025 9:13 PM
41	I love the roadrunner but feel the bears and deers are more local	7/11/2025 9:01 PM
42	Represents Animals also	7/11/2025 9:00 PM
43	The iconic view from The Hill. And yes, I very much would like this on the justice center wall.	7/11/2025 8:35 PM
44	I like the bear and the deer in design #2 and feel it better reflects Los Alamos than the big butterfly	7/11/2025 8:03 PM
45	More local nature	7/11/2025 6:41 PM
46	I'm an artist, support other artists, feel that the public needs art in their lives	7/11/2025 6:30 PM
47	See the previous comment	7/11/2025 6:28 PM
48	2 is more relevant to local Los Alamos County wildlife and has more animals	7/11/2025 6:27 PM
49	#2 is more colorful and include more of the iconic wildlife of our area.	7/11/2025 6:15 PM
50	More colorful	7/11/2025 6:01 PM
51	The first one feels delicate, easily flowing into the rest of the piece, and isn't visually cluttered.	7/11/2025 5:51 PM
52	Both capture well the culture and outdoor community	7/11/2025 5:23 PM
53	Better overall presentation that flows in its entirety	7/11/2025 4:22 PM
54	That's a lot of money that can be used for something else. Like new pavement on state rd 4	7/11/2025 4:12 PM
55	Because these are ridiculous and the county can't even keep the weeds down now, why paint it if it will be blocked by weeds ?	7/11/2025 3:38 PM
56	#2 represents our county much better!	7/11/2025 3:35 PM
57	Option 1 feels more artistic and visually less busy than the option 2	7/11/2025 1:50 PM
58	The new design has great elements.	7/11/2025 1:12 PM

2	Not sure if, by clicking the "OK" button, one votes for that image or not. I definitely prefer design 2.	7/19/2025 12:24 PM
3	Allow us to compare the mural designs side by side in order to have an easier time deciding which we prefer.	7/15/2025 3:33 PM
4	5	7/12/2025 8:38 PM
5	Why did the OK box pop up all the time? The diagonal lines crossing the page were distracting and unnecessary.	7/12/2025 4:29 PM
6	5 except for how to respond to question #5. If screen is enlarged, the 5th thumb up isn't visible.	7/12/2025 10:04 AM
